Auto Races at Edmonton Exhibition

Manager W. J. Stark of the Edmonton Exhibition has held off the big feature of the 1918 fair until the final days, when the automobile races will be held Friday night July 12th and Saturday afternoon July 13 in which ten of the most famous drivers on the circular tracks and ten record holding cars will compete for $3,000 in prize money.

Industry makes us a purse, but carefulness provides strings to it.

The War Situation

The west front has been quiet for some days although the Allied armies are continuing their nibbling tactics and have regained small tactical portions from the Germans. Everything points to another dash by the Germans. It is thought they are again concentrating far in the rear of their own lines to make another break although of course it is not known where the advance will be made. Reports indicate that the Allies, including a large number of American troops, have prepared and are ready for them wherever they may break out.

The Italian front has been in the limelight considerably this last week the Italians continuing their successful work against the Austrians whom they have now driven completely back to their original lines across the Piave.

The Russian situation is still more complicated by the assassination of the German ambassador in Moscow last week. The Germans are so furious over the killing that there is talk of an advance on Moscow by German troops which are within 300 miles of that ancient city. It is reported that Germany intends sending another large army to Russia. There are several organizations in Russia trying to down the Bolsheviks and it looks as though unexpected things may happen there soon.

Royal Air Force

Owing to the large influx of cadets as indicated a few days ago, recruiting of cadets for the Royal Air Force has temporarily ceased, excepting for men of the 19 year old class under the Military Service Act. Authority has been received from Ottawa to enlist these men as cadets and place them on a reserve. This does not mean that the Royal Air Force has completed their recruiting. It is simply a temporary lull to allow the schools to deal with the large supply of cadets already in hand. It is quite possible and extremely likely, that recruiting for cadets will be opened full blast, in the course of two months, including men eligible under the Military Service Act.

MECHANICS

There are a large number of vacancies in the Royal Air Force for mechanics, both skilled and unskilled. Authority has been received from Ottawa to enlist any Medical Category "B" man in the Royal Air Force, also married men, and men outside the Military Service Act are eligible. The advantages of joining the Air Force as a mechanic are many:

(1) The pay is good and the promotion rapid.

(2) Men are taught a trade which will be invaluable to them after the war, because the field for aviation mechanics will be a large one.

(3) By joining the Royal Air Force a man is doing splendid work for his country in training pilots.

Application should be made in person or by letter to Capt. M. G. Dover, Officer in Charge Recruiting, Royal Air Force, Southam Building, Calgary.

Fatal Runaway Accident In Didsbury

To be in the best of health with the full use of all her faculties one minute and the next to be hurled into eternity was the fate of Mrs. W. F. Sick on Saturday morning last when she was suddenly killed by a runaway dray team.

Mrs. Sick was standing on the sidewalk at the Royal Bank corner talking to Mrs. D. Dippel when the dray team, which had become frightened at something at the Crystal Dairy Co.'s building in the south end of the town, came tearing up Railway Ave., and just at the corner of Osler Street and the Avenue suddenly swerved, one horse seemingly wanting to go the opposite way to the other, but both dashing onto the sidewalk into the women. Mrs. Sick was hurled to the hard cement walk by one of the horses and one wheel of the dray ran into her killing her instantly, her head being badly smashed and other parts of the body bruised. Mrs. Dippel, fortunately, while receiving glancing blows which caused several bruises, escaped serious injury but the shock was such that she has been confined to the house ever since, and as she is not a young woman it is having a very bad effect on her.

Both Dr. Clarke and Dr. Evans were immediately called but life was extinct, the cause of death being a fractured skull and destruction of the functions of the brain.

Coroner Dr. Clarke with a jury composed of Messrs. G. B. Sexsmith, H. W. Chambers, S. R. Wood, Fred Moyle, A. Brusso, J. W. Doran, held an inquest on Saturday night which was adjourned until Tuesday morning when the following verdict was brought in: We, the jury, sworn to enquire into the death of Mrs. Anna M. Sick beg leave to report as follows: After listening to the evidence given and viewing the body of deceased we find that said Anna M. Sick came to her death on July 6th, 1918, between 10 and 11 a.m., on Railway street, in front of A. G. Studer's store, by being knocked down and run over by a dray team, receiving a sharp blow causing fracture of the skull. We, the jury, are agreed that the owner of the team, Mr. Alex Guy, used reasonable means for preventing his team from running away. We recommend that more stringent regulations be enacted in the town of Didsbury governing the tying of horses and the speed of vehicles. G. B. Sexsmith, foreman.

Prov. Const. W. G. Naylor, of Olds, had charge of the case on behalf of the government.

The terribly sudden death of Mrs. Sick has cast a deep gloom over the whole community because of the very deep respect and sincere appreciation in which she was held by every person for her charitable, motherly and christian virtues. She was one of those women whose lives are spent in sacrifice for others, and who go down in our memories as a monument by which to guide our own lives, knowing that if we follow her example we cannot go far astray.

She was closely identified with St. Hilda's Chapter of the Eastern Star, the W. C. T. U., the Women's Institute, the Ladies' Aid and Missionary Society of the Presbyterian church, and was an indefatigable worker for the Red Cross. In fact her activities were numerous and were always devoted to any deserving cause both private and public. The funeral will be held on Thursday afternoon under the auspices of St. Hilda's Chapter of the Eastern Star at 2 p.m. The large tent opposite her late residence has been kindly donated for the occasion by the M. B. C. church. Interment will take place in the Didsbury cemetery and the services will be conducted by Rev. D. MacGregor of the Presbyterian church. Naturally Mr. W. F. Sick, who is 70 years of age, and who is also well known throughout the district, was prostrated with grief at the sudden calling of his helpmate and he and the rest of the family have the sincerest sympathy of the whole district in their sudden loss of a devoted wife and mother. Mrs. Sick was 66 years of age.

AROUND THE TOWN

Mrs. Ross Shantz, of Castor, is visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Stark.

Mrs. Potter and Mrs. Lou Wrigglesworth will have charge of the Red Cross Lunch on Friday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Martin, of Calgary, motored to Didsbury on Monday and are visiting friends in the district.

Mr. and Mrs. Milo Cressman and children, of Stavely, Alta., came up by motor last Thursday and will visit friends in the district before returning.

The rain seems to have a great dislike to visit us in any quantity and the consequence is we are needing some just now although this district is certainly looking fine considering the amount of top moisture we have had this year. At present it looks as though our hay crop will not be as good as last year.

Pills for Nervous Troubles.—The stomach is the centre of the nervous system, and when the stomach suspends healthy action the result is manifest in disturbances of the nerves. If allowed to persist, nervous debility, a dangerous ailment, may ensue. The first consideration is to restore the stomach to proper action, and there is no readier remedy for this than Farnham's Vegetable Pills. Thousands can attest the virtue of these pills in curing nervous disorders.

A Colored Miracle

Have You Done Lost Yo Own Language

It was with the American army on the Lorraine front. He was a black boy from Alabama—lonesome. He had been working in a stone quarry most all day and no one had said a word to him. He happened to look across the way and there was another black boy in khaki. The other black boy was a French colonial, but the American black boy looked only at the face and the color of the uniform.

"Low niggah, how's tricks?" was the opening social parry.

No answer.

"Ah say niggah, does you know Ah's talkin' to you?"

Then astonishment. From the other black came a rattle of French that would put a machine gun to shame.

The black boy from Alabama gasped. He couldn't believe his eyes or his ears.

"Foh da Gawd's sake, niggah, has you been mixed up with these Frenchers so much you done lost yo own language?" and he went back to work.

Did a Good Turn For an Old Friend

HOW TWO MEN PROVED THE WORTH OF DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

Henry Burkhardt, of Saskatchewan, Sent Dodd's Kidney Pills to Dakota, and His Friends Join in Their Praises.

Fox Valley, Sask. (Special).—"I tell every one that suffers from kidney trouble to take Dodd's Kidney Pills." These are the words of Mr. Henry Burkhardt, of this place.

"I took Dodd's Kidney Pills for eight months," Mr. Burkhardt continued, "and now I feel as well as ever I did in my life. I also sent one box to a friend who lives in Dakota, and who I knew suffered from his kidneys."

"My friend wrote me to get him some more of Dodd's Kidney Pills, as the doctors could do nothing to help him. He said Dodd's Kidney Pills were the best medicine he had ever taken."

"I would not be without Dodd's Kidney Pills."

In the sparsely-settled parts of the West, where doctors are few, Dodd's Kidney Pills have long held an honored place in the family medicine chest. The conditions which are common to newly-settled prairie countries makes kidney trouble one of the most prevalent ills, and the settlers early discovered the splendid results to be obtained from Dodd's Kidney Pills. Ask your neighbor about them.

Nearly Human Horse is Dead

Paddy R. Knew Enough to Treat His Own Broken Leg

Sportsmen who have followed the horse racing game 20 or 25 years ago will be interested in the fact that one of the wonder horses of that time, Paddy R., the matinee marvel, recently died at Carman, Manitoba.

Paddy R. was renowned, not only for his great speed and endurance, but because of his wonderful intelligence. It is recorded of him that in 1896, while racing at the old track at St. Thomas, Ont., he broke his leg. Instead of behaving as other animals do in similar circumstances, he lay down on a stoneboat, on which he was taken to the railway station and sent to his Watford home, without even having a bridle on his head. During his illness he took such good care of his injured leg that it healed quickly, and he was able a few months later to race again, and established his record.

It is claimed by some lovers of "man's best friend" that a good horse is more intelligent than any dog, and the action of Paddy R. goes a long way towards proving this contention.

Eat More Fish

Canada Has Vast Fish Resources Which Can Supply Unlimited Amount

Efforts have been made throughout Canada to produce and market more fish. This country has fish resources, which have been exploited commercially for the export trade but only in the big cities have fresh fish been available regularly to private consumers. On the Pacific coast and the Atlantic coast, on the lakes of the west, on the lakes of Northern Ontario and the Great Lakes, fishermen will procure fish if the demand for it becomes regular and constant. Eat more fish and save meat for the men at the front.

From my own experience I would recommend every mother to keep a box on hand." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Sensitiveness Spells Failure

You'll Never Hold a Big Job Until You Can Forget Your Own Petty Self

In an article called "How I Cured Myself of Being Sensitive," a writer says in The American Magazine:

"Wagner, you've got ability," he cried, "but you'll never get anywhere in this world until you quit tearing yourself to pieces! I've watched you for the past three years; twice I've had it in mind to push you up a notch in the office, and every time I've passed you and picked someone else, because I know you aren't fit to handle other men. No man is fit to handle other men until he has learned to control himself. You can't, you're too blamed sensitive."

"Little setbacks break your heart. A letter of complaint comes in from some customer and you take it as a personal criticism, and lose a day's work brooding over it. You see me in conference with some of the other men, and you stab yourself wondering why you weren't invited, and imagine that I have turned against you. You hear that someone who is making more money than you, and immediately all far fields look greener. You're a fairly useful cog in your present job, and it might put me to some annoyance to lose you. But you'll never hold a big job until you can forget your own petty self and learn to laugh when the world takes a crack at you. Hanged if I don't think sometimes it might be better if you were to get out and try your hand somewhere else."

Miller's Worm Powders are a pleasant medicine for worm-infested children, and they will take it without objection. When directions are followed it will not injure the most delicate child, as there is nothing of an injurious nature in its composition. They will speedily rid a child of worms and restore the health of the little sufferers whose vitality has become impaired by the attacks of these internal pests.

German Destructiveness

Description of Devastation Wrought by the Huns

"Louvain will remain perhaps the classic instance of Schrecklichkeit," says Brand Whitlock in Everybody's for May, "but Vise was worse." To day, lying along the Meuse is a silent city; its empty chambers open to the sky. It might be Pompeii. Those ruins might have lain there for centuries. There is not a living being there. The devastation, the destruction are absolute, the scene complete; it is the very abomination of desolation, a mass of brick and stone and charred beams, crumbling white facades, whose windows, with their casements blackened by fire, stare like the hollow sockets of skulls. Of the four thousand inhabitants, not one is there, not a house is standing, not a roof remains. The taverns where the people used to go in joyous bands to eat the famous roast goose, are heaps of cinders; the very trees in their gardens, under whose boughs the youth of Liege used to dance the cramenon, have been burned. The scaling walls of the church tremble; the wind, the roof has fallen in; the towers with their bells, the organs, the statues, have tumbled into bits. The work that would have required ages, was accomplished by German organization in a night. . . .

Carmen's Messenger

— BY —
HAROLD BINDLOSS

WARD, LOCK & CO., LIMITED
LONDON, MELBOURNE, AND TORONTO

Foster thanked him and examined the map. It was clearly drawn and showed the height and natural features of the country, which was obviously rough. The path marked out led over the border hills, dipped into winding valleys, and skirted moorland lakes. It seemed to draw him as he studied it, for the wilderness has charm, and the drove road ran through healthy wastes far from the smoke of factories and mining towns. Well, he was ready to cross the bleak uplands, without troubling much about the mist and rain, for he had faced worse winters than any Scotland knew, but reflected with amusement that Daly would find the travelling rough if he got on his trail.

There were, however, some things he needed for the journey, and he went out to buy them while the shops were open. Next morning he gave instructions that letters for himself and Lawrence should be sent to Peebles, and when the clerk objected that he could not forward Featherstone's without the latter's orders, said it did not matter. He had left a clue for Daly, which was all he wanted, but, in order to make it plainer, he sent the porter to the station with the bag and told him to wait by the Peebles train. Then he set off, dressed in the oldest clothes he had, wondering what adventures he would meet with in the wilds.

XI

The Poachers

Foster left Peebles soon after his arrival and following the Tweed down stream to Traquair turned south across the hills. A road brought him to Yarrow, where he sat down to smoke in the shelter of a stone dyke by the waterside. He had no reason to believe that he was followed, and there were two good hotels beside St. Mary's loch, which was not far off. But Foster did not mean to stay at good hotels and knew that Daly would not have much trouble in reaching St. Mary's in a car if he arrived at Peebles by a later train. It would then be difficult to keep out of his way, and if he found Foster alone, he would, no doubt, go back to look for Lawrence at the Garth. Taking this for granted Foster thought it better to put Ettrick Forest between himself and possible pursuit.

It looked a lonely region on the map, and when he glanced south the hills loomed dark and forbidding through thin grey mist. Pools of water dotted the marsh fields, and beyond these lay a wet, brown moss where wild cotton grew among the peat bogs. Plover were crying about the waste and a curlew's shrill tremolo rang out as it flitted across the leaden sky. The outlook was not encouraging, but Foster picked his way across the bog and struck up the side of a fell. There was a road, but it would take him some distance round.

Wiry grass twined about his feet, he sank in velvety green patches where the moss grew rank, and walking was harder when he crossed belts of withered heath. Here and there a gnarled thorn bush rattled its dry twigs in the wind; there were bits of dykes and rusty wire fences, but he saw no path except the winding tracks the sheep had made. Still Ettrick water was not far off, and he would strike it if he held south. Heavy rain met him on the summit, and after struggling on for a time he took shelter behind a broken dyke. The rain got worse and the moor was lost in a mist a quarter of a mile away. He thought this was the roar of Ettrick or a fall on a moorland burn that would lead him down.

When he began to feel cold he set off again, and the rain, which thinned as he went down hill, stopped altogether when he reached the bottom. A road ran beside the angry water, but the valley was deeply sunk in the dark fells and their summits were hidden by drifting mist. There was no hint of life in the dreary landscape except a moving patch that looked like a flock of sheep, and a glance at the map showed that his path led on across the waste to the south. It would be a long march to Hawick, which was the town he meant to reach, particularly if he went up the valley, until he found a road, but his director had indicated a clachan as his stopping place. He understood that a clachan meant a hamlet, and the old fellow had said he would find rough but sufficient accommodation in what he called a change house. It would be awkward if he lost the way, but this must be risked, and crossing the river he struck into the hills.

He found a rough track, and presently the sky began to clear. Pale-blue patches opened in the thinning clouds, and gleams of sunshine, chased by shadow, touched the moor. Where they fell the brown heath turned red and withered fern glowed fiery yellow. The green road, croppled smooth by sheep and crossed by rills of water, swung sharply up and down, but at length it began a steady descent, and about four o'clock in the afternoon Foster stopped in the bottom of a deep glen.

A few rushy fields occupied the hollow and a house stood in the shelter of a thin fir wood. It had mullioned windows and a porch with pillars, but looked old and the walls were speckled with lichens. A garden stretched about it, and looking in through the iron rails, Foster saw gnarled fruit trees fringed with moss. Their branches cut against a patch of saffron sky and a faint warm glow touched the front of the building. There was a low window at its nearest end and Foster saw a woman sewing by the fire.

The house had a strangely homelike look after the barren moors, and Foster, who was tired and cold, longed to ask for shelter. Had it been a farm, he might have done so, but he thought it belonged to some country laird and resumed his march.

SMOKE T&B TUCKETTS

He never saw the house again, but remembered it now and then as he had seen it with the fading light that shone through the old apple trees touching its lichen wall.

The road led upwards and he stopped for breath at the summit. The glen was now shut in and the light going, but here and there in the distance a loch reflected a pale gleam. A half moon shone above the hills and the silver light got brighter as he went on. The wind had fallen and the silence was emphasized by the faint splash of water. After a time, he came down to lower ground where broken dykes divided straggling fields, but there was no sign of life until as he turned a corner an indistinct figure vanished among the dry fern in the shadow of a wall. Foster thought this curious, particularly when he passed the spot and saw nobody there, but there was an opening in the dyke for the sheep to go through.

A little farther on the road ran across a field, and when he was near the middle he saw something move behind a gorse bush. Although it looked like a man's head, he did not stop. Going as far as he had seen nothing until he was close to the gorse, he left the track and walked swiftly but softly across the grass. When he reached the bush a man who had been crouching behind it sprang to his feet. He was tall and roughly dressed and looked like a shepherd or farm hand.

Dollars on Side of Justice

Early in the war Lloyd George was quoted as saying that the nation with the last hundred thousand dollars would triumph. Money never does the work of men, but the economic balance is highly favorable to the United States and our allies. The world's greatest budget is thus an encouraging indication of vigor. It is a pledge that men will never fail, because of lack of the resources of victory. It is a welcome assurance of the future. The armies of liberty, inspired by the cause of eternal right, are also safeguarded by the economic situation. Dollars are on the side of justice.—Chicago Herald.

Big Land Sales in Alberta

A great increase in farm land sales all over Alberta is indicated by the amount of business passing through the Land Titles offices in Edmonton and Calgary, as reported to the provincial government. The figures show that there has been already this year an activity in this direction, the like of which has not been known since the boom days of 1913.

The Indian and the Plough

Indian Population Is Contributing to Food Supply

Production that is always in our minds when our minds are not fixed on the western front where things are happening that will determine everything.

Well, production is the best that folks safe at home can achieve. It is a good best but it is only second best. First best belongs to the men on the battle front.

It is gratifying to learn, as can be done through the recent report of the department of Indian affairs, to what extent a very considerable portion of our Indian population is contributing to our food supply by cultivating the soil, and raising cattle. The Iroquois on the old reserves in southern Ontario have long been successful farmers, as any one can see for himself who will visit for instance, the market square of Brantford on farmers' day and note the produce offered for sale and the sleek horses and well-kept wagons, all of which belong to our copper-colored fellow citizens.

And the lure of the plough, or rather the lure of the profits that follow the plough, has taken possession of many of the most intelligent of the Indians in the West, who, perhaps are to be found chiefly in Alberta. At any rate, it is the record of certain tribes in Southern Alberta that can be pointed to with best effect as proof of the success "Poor Lo" is making of his farming operations.

In Alberta there are only a little less than nine thousand Indians—not quite one-third as many as there are in Ontario, which has the largest Indian population of any province. The best Indian farmers in Alberta, and probably in the whole West, are the Blood, Peigan, and Blackfoot bands. Let the superintendent—general of Indian affairs tell how these bands are getting on. He writes:

"The Blood Indians during the season of 1916, by their own efforts and without any financial aid from the government of Canada, produced 65,150 bushels of wheat on 2,600 acres, and 26,980 bushels of oats on 768 acres. They grew approximately 7,150 bushels of table vegetables, harvested approximately 6,700 tons of hay and green fodder, and prepared 2,320 acres of summer fallow and new breaking for the 1917 seeding. The sale of the grain not used on the reserve realized approximately $125,000.

The Blackfoot Indians started farming in 1912. They have now 4,875 acres of well farmed land. They have purchased 250 farm work-horses of good grade, some of which cost over $500 a team, from their farm earnings, and they take good care of them. During the season of 1916, 74 of these Indians produced over 68,000 bushels of wheat and 33,000 bushels of oats. They sold wheat to the value of $92,000, retaining more than sufficient seed for the spring of 1917. All these operations cost the government nothing, as the money required is provided by the band from their funds and earnings. The Peigan Indians produced 33,880 bushels of wheat, which realized $44,044, and 18,615 bushels of oats, which realized $6,515.25. They sold 1,215 tons of hay for $5,350 and had 300 tons left for their own use.—Montreal Standard.

The Returned Soldier

Men Returned From the Shell-pocked Fields of Europe

One of the big problems that confronts the industrial and business community is the assimilation of the returned soldier. Already 35,000 of these men have been returned from the shell-pocked fields of Europe as unfit for further military service. There are between 20,000 and 25,000 Canadians still in English hospitals.

To train these men in schools in such a way as to fit them to take up some sort of vocation would necessitate large training centres. "At most it is estimated not more than twenty or twenty-five courses could be provided for them. If these men were to get their training with employers some 175 occupations would be open to them.

It has been deemed advisable by the government that these men should receive their training under the conditions they will earn their livelihood in. To this end the government has taken steps to get the co-operation of employers in this matter.

Retail merchants, manufacturers and other employers of labor will not be tardy in accepting their fair responsibility in this matter. Kindness, consideration and tact, but not for charity, should be the impelling motive of all dealings with these worthy men.

War and Food

No. 16

POTATO FLOUR

Everyone doesn't know it but the fact remains that delicious white bread may be made simply and solely from potato flour. This is not a war discovery. Long before August, 1914, and the beginning of the reign of bloodshed, potato flour was in use and bakers liked it particularly for making sponge cake.

There are enormous quantities of potatoes in Canada. The farmers know that; their wives know it; city people know it. What are we going to do with them all? Are we going to allow such valuable food material to go to waste?

Senator Colby, loaned by the United States food administration to the Canada food board, and who has just returned from the front, is impressing it on his audiences all over the country that he would not sit down at a table where there was one slice of pure wheat bread after what he saw in Europe. To eat it would seem to him like reaching out his hand and snatching it from the mouths of starving people. "Eat substitutes," he says. "Eat substitutes" the Canada food board has been preaching for months past. "Eat substitutes" echo all thinking and earnest minded people.

Then why not encourage the manufacture and the free use of potato flour? It is wholesome, makes a delicious loaf and does not rob the people of Europe of the thing they most need—wheat and the manufactured product, the staff of life. Bread is the basis of social order. Everything that makes life endurable in times of stress depends upon bread. People have bartered their souls before now for a crust of bread.

Indeed, starvation has reached such a point in certain districts of Russia that members of the impoverished classes are selling their wives and children for bags of flour.

Is it not essential then that we save white flour lest our allies in Europe reach such a pitch as this?

We have the wheat on this continent. The United States and Canada alone are in a position to meet Europe's desperate need for wheat. And still we go on using white flour freely! It is time for potato flour to be given a trial in order that increasing quantities of standard flour may be saved. Healthy men have lived and worked for months on a diet of nothing other than potatoes, olcomarine and a little fruit. The food material in potatoes is 93 per cent. digestible. Potato flour is very fine in texture and has an agreeable flavor.

Western Canada

Favorable for Bees

Producing an Increasing Quantity of Honey Every Year

The diversified nature of Western Canada's farm industries is becoming wider every year. In contemplating the possibilities of the country in grain growing and live stock raising, sight is often lost of many of the smaller branches of farming which are being successfully carried out, if not on a large scale, yet sufficiently so to demonstrate the possibilities of them. Bee keeping is one of these industries. Manitoba is producing an increasing quantity of honey every year. Last year the output of the province reached one million pounds. Farmers in Alberta who have kept bees consider the country very favorable for them. This is due to the numerous and prolific source of honey supply in the province. One farmer obtained 1,400 pounds of honey from twenty colonies two years ago. Others have obtained 600 pounds and more. Bee keeping has added materially to their family income.

Refusal to buy a bond resulted in a girl's being discharged from her position in a Norristown, Pa., factory the other day. The other girls in the factory refused to work in the same shop with this girl, unless she was able to furnish a good reason why she had not bought a bond. The girl refused, and the superintendent discharged her.

How About the Harvest

The shortage of flour and wheat products is so serious between now and next harvest that every effort must be made by this continent to tide it over. Farmers by producing wheat are helping to win the war. By saving flour they and everybody else in the country may also help towards the same end. The increased acreage sown with grain this year in Western Canada is estimated at 2,600,000 acres of which 2,000,000 acres are of wheat. The total increase in Canada is estimated at 4,600,000 acres, even so every available bushel of wheat will be needed. Canadian farmers are responding magnificently to the call for increased production, despite the many other calls that have been heard and answered. The world is at the greatest crisis in its history and the farmers of Canada have realized the fact and shown the true Canadian spirit. It remains now for the people of the towns and cities to organize and sacrifice personal interests in a wholehearted campaign to save these crops, which have been so successfully planted despite difficulties, so that the harvest will be as great in proportion as the acreage sown. This summer and autumn will mean a long pull and a strong pull for all hands.

Enduring Hardness
Hardships and Sacrifices of the Armies at the Front

There is also one more element in enduring hardness. It is the element of sacrifice. Our spirit of endurance will be in proportion to our spirit of sacrifice, and nowhere is sacrifice more needed than at home. It must all be borne with a noble endurance. It would be impossible to find words capable of expressing the hardships and sacrifices of the armies at the front. It has been marvelous to think of. Yet there seems to be a sacrifice at home harder to endure in many respects than the sacrifices on the firing line. It is the sacrifice made by mothers, wives and loved ones at home, who live in daily fear, constant suspense and hourly dread, sometimes suffering silent tortures in solitude in which even the excitement of a battlefield would bring relief.—London Free Press.

WOMEN! IT IS MAGIC!
LIFT OUT ANY CORN

Apply a few drops then lift corns or calluses off with fingers—no pain

Just think! You can lift off any corn or callus without pain or soreness.

A Cincinnati man discovered this ether compound and named it freezone. Any druggist will sell a tiny bottle of freezone, like here shown, for very little cost. You apply a few drops directly upon a tender corn or callus. Instantly the soreness disappears, then shortly you will find the corn or callus so loose that you can lift it right off.

Freezone is wonderful. It dries instantly. It doesn't eat away the corn or callus, but shrivels it up without even irritating the surrounding skin.

Hard, soft or corns between the toes, as well as painful calluses, lift right off. There is no pain before or afterwards. If your druggist hasn't freezone, tell him to order a small bottle for you from his wholesale drug house.

Farm Machines Necessary
In the time of Nero, it took four and a half days' labor to raise a bushel of wheat. When the reaper was invented (1831), it took three hours. Today it takes ten minutes. This is a mechanical age on the farm as well as everywhere else, and the world has become absolutely dependent on farm machines.

A NERVOUS BREAKDOWN
Can Be Averted by Feeding the Starved Nerves With Rich, Red Blood

Nourish your nerves—that is the only way you can overcome life's worst misery, nervous exhaustion. The fits of depression and irritation, the prostrating headaches, the weakness and trembling of the legs, the unsteady hand and the imperfect digestion that mark the victim of nerve weakness, must end in nervous breakdown if neglected.

Nourish your nerves by the natural process of filling your veins with rich, red, health-giving blood. Your nerves are crying out for pure blood and the mission of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is to make new, rich blood. This explains why these pills have proved successful in so many cases of nervous disease that did not yield to ordinary treatment. For example, Mr. Wilfrid Donald, West Flamboro, Ont., says:—"Before I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I was in a serious condition. I was not only badly run down, but my nerves seemed to be completely shattered. I slept badly at night, and when I got up in the morning was as tired as when I went to bed. I seemed to be on the verge of a nervous breakdown. At this stage I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. In the course of a few weeks I felt much relief, and continuing the use of the pills they completely restored my health. I can now sleep soundly, eat well, and am enjoying complete freedom from the old nervous troubles."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

There was an impressive silence until a little, undersized man in the second row turned to an enormous woman who sat by him, and breathed eagerly:

"Maria, dear, won't you oblige the gentleman?"

Unsinkable Ship
Dares U-boats and Delivers Cargo Without Trouble

An unsinkable ship, which boldly braved the dangers of the submarine zone as a challenge to the Hun U-boats, has returned safely to an Atlantic port. It is understood that the vessel left an Atlantic port in convoy of forty-three vessels, and when the fleet reached the danger zone the unsinkable ship left the convoy as a deliberate challenge to the undersea boats. No attempt was made to avoid the enemy war vessels, and the ship headed a direct course for its destination, which was a French port. After delivering its cargo the vessel sailed, and a second time no attempt was made to sink it.

Feeding Garbage to Hogs
Many Cities in the United States are Saving More and Growing Pork

By feeding garbage to hogs instead of burning it, Minneapolis will save its taxpayers between $50,000 and $60,000 annually. The change became effective on April 1.

Other cities in the United States which have recently adopted hog-feeding include: South Bend, Ind., Madison, Wis., Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Salt Lake City, Utah, and Harrisburg Pa. The garbage from these cities will, it is estimated, produce 3,000,000 pounds of marketable pork per annum.

Consider War a Necessity
What Germany Started War For Now Explained

Professor Charles Scott Sherrington of Oxford has sent The London Times a memorandum of a conversation he had at Heidelberg in August, 1907, with Professor Ernest Troeltsch, of the theological faculty of Heidelberg University.

In his conversation as set forth in the Oxford professor's notes, Prof. Troeltsch said that war between Germany and England was a necessity because England had so much that it was absolutely necessary for Germany to possess in order to play her role as a world state. Prof. Troeltsch, when asked what possessions Germany desired, replied:

"Ports, colonies in many parts of the world; Australia, South Africa, Hong Kong, India."

The New Bismarck
Ludendorff as the New Bismarck Far Eclipsed His Model

From a report of a speech said to have been made at a dinner party in Berlin before the great drive by Ludendorff, the following passage is quoted by the Boston Transcript:

"The people will stand the loss of a million men if I ask it. I shall take good care that among that million are those who talk most about peace or who give trouble. . . . Socialists be damned. By the time you fear a revolution I shall have prevented it. The men will be dead and the women, as Napoleon said, cannot make revolutions."

They are hailing Ludendorff in Germany as the new Bismarck. As a man of blood and iron he has, however, far eclipsed his model.

B. C. Fish Output
Greater Quantity of Fish and Higher Prices

The summary of the fishing results in Canada, just published by the naval department of the Dominion government, shows that the marketed value of British Columbia fish in 1917 was $8,000,000 more than in 1916. This increase, although partly due to increased prices, is not altogether so, for a greater quantity of fish has been produced, in spite of the fact that the usual big run of sockeye salmon in the Fraser river district, which was due in 1917, did not materialize, so that the pack of this grade of salmon was only twenty-five per cent. of an ordinary year. Other grades, however, were packed in greater quantities.

Ingram's Milkweed Cream

You are young but once but you can be youthful always if you care for your complexion properly. Daily use of Ingram's Milkweed Cream prevents blemishes, overcomes pimples and other eruptions. Since 1885 its distinctive therapeutic quality has been giving health to the skin and youthful color to the complexion. It keeps your skin toned up, soft and clean.

The refined way to banish oiliness and shininess of nose and forehead induced by perspiration, is to apply a light touch of Ingram's Velveola Souveraine Face Powder. It also conceals the minor blemishes. Included in the complete line of Ingram's toilet products at your druggist's is Ingram's Zodenta for the teeth.

AROUND THE TOWN

Mr. Fred Sick of Fergus Falls, Minn., arrived here Monday and Mr. Lawrence H. Sick and little son of Duluth, Minn., arrived Wednesday to attend their mother's funeral.

Mr. Fred Sick who is visiting his father, Mr. W. F. Sick, states that crops in Minnesota are in splendid condition generally and that some of the grain will be an immense crop.

The meeting of the Women's Institute has been postponed on account of the death of Mrs. W. F. Sick. The meeting will be held on Thursday, July 18th, at 2 p.m., at the residence of Mrs. G. F. Smith.

We still have those handsome and handy little certificate holders for ladies or gentlemen for sale. Don't fail to get one as 25c spent now will perhaps save you considerable trouble through the loss of your certificate. The DIDSBURY PIONEER.

The sale of town lots held by the Town Council on Tuesday afternoon was not a howling success, very few attending the sale and no lots being sold. When it is considered that there are some excellent business lots for sale at practically any price that would be offered it was rather surprising. However, if any person wishes to purchase any of these lots they should call on Secretary Brusso and make an offer as they can now be sold at private sale.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Phillipson were sorry to learn of the sudden death of their little daughter, Eileen, at the Calgary hospital on Saturday last. The little one was taken suddenly ill on Thursday and the case was diagnosed as appendicitis. She was immediately taken to Calgary for an operation but death took place on Saturday as stated. She was eight years of age. The funeral took place in Didsbury on Tuesday.

We noticed a large number of Didsburyites taking in the Calgary exhibition last week. The Fair was certainly up to advance notices this year, the live stock and other departments, outside of the amusement end, were well worth seeing and were an education in themselves. There were a large number of motor farming implements being shown by different firms which emphasized the great advance motor power is making over the old horse power implements. Altogether the Fair was worth attending.

The natives of Didsbury had a splendid view of Miss Katherine Stinson in her flying machine on her way from Calgary to Edmonton on Tuesday evening about 6.20. Miss Stinson is the first aviator to make a trip of this kind in Alberta. She carried mail and greetings from the Calgary city and Exhibition officials to the Edmonton officials. She was scheduled to pass over Didsbury about 1.45 p.m. but owing to engine trouble she had to alight at Beddington to get it fixed which delayed her. Miss Stinson covered the distance of 196 miles between Calgary and Edmonton in two hours at an average altitude of 6,000.

Rod and Gun Magazine For June

Fishing and Canoeing in Algonquin Park. The Record of a Cruise on the Keweenaw Lakes, Bear Hunting on Peace River, On the Trail of Ogarse, A Day on the Bras D'Or Lakes, are some of the contents of the June issue of Rod and Gun now on the news stands. The Guns and Ammunition department this month is of special interest containing as it does a carefully written and practical article by one who has been "over there" on Sharpshooting in the Trenches. Every prospective soldier should read this article for it tells the soldier how to shoot to kill, and this is what is needed if we are to win this war. There are other articles in this section worthy of note and the Fishing Notes section is up to its usual standard. Rod and Gun, the magazine of outdoor life in Canada, is published by W. J. Taylor, Limited, at Woodstock, Ont.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Phillipson wish to thank all those friends who were so kind, thoughtful, and helpful during the short illness and death of their little girl Eileen.
